

Indianapolis Mediation Lawyers

Mediation is a legal process that can be used to achieve mutually satisfactory solutions to various issues surrounding divorce. Mediation can often achieve these results more efficiently and with less cost and stress to the parties than other methods.

Ruppert & Schaefer, P.C. can help you determine if mediation is the right tool to use in your situation. If it is, we can represent you throughout the mediation process with the aim of achieving your objectives.

The Mediation Process

Mediation is often used as a dispute resolution method when negotiation has not yielded results. In the mediation process, a neutral mediating attorney guides a discussion with the aim of uncovering areas of agreement and disagreement in order to reach solutions to outstanding problems. Each party is represented by an attorney who can protect their client's interests. One or both of the parties to the divorce may be present during the discussion, but can choose not to participate. Mediation can be used to resolve any or all of the issues in a divorce including child custody and visitation, spousal maintenance, and property division. At any time the parties can choose to stop the mediation process and seek to resolve their disagreements through negotiation or litigation.

The attorneys at Ruppert & Schaefer, P.C. have extensive training and experience in mediation. If mediation is right for you, we can provide skilled and knowledgeable representation in the mediation process in order to achieve your goals.

Experienced Mediators

In addition to representing clients during the mediation process, Michael G. Ruppert, Paula J. Schaefer, and Lainie A. Hurwitz also serve as mediators. Experience as a mediator allows each to better understand the dynamics of the mediation process — knowledge that can be applied when representing clients during mediation.

Ruppert & Schaefer, P.C. has achieved positive outcomes using mediation in numerous cases in Indiana. If mediation is right for you, we will seek to obtain your objectives using the process, while protecting your rights and interests at all times.
