

PRACTICAL PROBLEMS IN LAW AND MINISTRY: “Law of General Equity”

A POSTDOCTORAL STUDY

by Roderick Andrew Lee Ford, D.Litt., LL.D., Esq.
Senior Fellow and Chancellor of St. Clements University

University of Florida Levin College of Law
ATTN: John F. Stinneford, Esq.
Sr. Fellow, Hamilton Center for Classical and Civic Education
309 Village Drive
Gainesville, Florida 32611
Email: jstinneford@law.ufl.edu

Dear Professor Stinneford:

Please let me know when we can have lunch or coffee to discuss the Hamilton Center.

I am attaching for your review Volume Two of my postdoctoral study, “Law of General Equity,” because it was written with Christian law students and legal historians in mind. It is the sort of publication that I wish that I had had during my years as an undergraduate student, or during my second or third years of law school. You may access Volume Two at the following link:

**Volume Two: Law of General Equity**

As I have mentioned under a separate cover, the foundations of American jurisprudence have been corroded in large measure because we have not only omitted this Christian jurisprudence from our secular legal education, but we have even insinuated that it is altogether non-existent.

Yours Sincerely,

Rev. Roderick Andrew Lee Ford

Copyright 2024 ©