

Good morning!

Ending the week with a great call from L! Take a look at the play here.

This is a play that we all can get caught off guard on, then the second time we see it we get it. The L here sees the play the whole way through and when blue 1 (I think) displaces white, holds her from getting to the corner to defend, she gets the foul. It could appear that the girl in white who was fouled switched when blue 'screened' her, but blue was displacing her that enough to make it appear that way. The girl in white finally tries to get around her to get to the corner when the L blows the whistle. It is clearly a team control foul and the L uses the correct mechanic. Using the correct mechanic makes it clear to everyone (partners, coaches, players, spectators), so using the correct mechanic is much appreciated!

There isn't much more to say than 'great get'!

Friday extra: PLEASE be careful in turning games back to your assignor or school. Whatever 'rules' they use need to be followed. If they allow a turnback for a college assignment, great. In all likelihood, giving back a varsity game to take a 'better' varsity game is not in the cards and can burn bridges. Just be respectful to the people giving you games.

Have a great game tonight!
