

Talk to Your Child - It Really Works

Talk to your baby or toddler as often as you can. This will help them become a better talker & learner and will also increase their confidence.

Answer your baby's noises & babbles. He's talking to you.

Dressing, meals and play time are great talking times.

Listen and give your toddler time to talk & respond.

Try to get your baby's attention when you talk together.

What things can you talk about that your child sees.

Talk about the pictures & drawings in a favorite book.

Learning to talk is one of the most important skills your child will achieve. It seems to happen naturally, but in fact, you have a very important role to play.

Enabling Children to Reach Their Full Potential