

Hongkong Salvage & Towage
(a division of Hongkong United Dockyards Ltd.)

Keeping you protected through the Typhoon Season during COVID-19 and beyond

The Typhoon season is nearing, and the risk of calamities at sea is high. Severe damage and grounding of vessels occurred in Hong Kong during Typhoon Hato and Super Typhoon Mangkhut in 2017 and 2018 respectively.

With the outbreak of COVID-19, marine specialists, supporting vessels and equipment might not be able to be mobilised in time from abroad to Hong Kong due to various travel and trade restrictions, hence hampering your ability to respond to marine casualties.

The highest proactive precautions have to be taken to ensure that Hong Kong harbour and our client's interests are well protected during these adverse times.

In response to this, Hongkong Salvage & Towage has further strengthened its cooperation with a panel of Hong Kong-based and internationally well-known salvage professionals, including Capt Hans Langsrud from Marine Masters Hong Kong and Capt Alan Loynd from Branscombe Marine Consultants Ltd.

Localised and Diversified Emergency Response Service

Hongkong Salvage & Towage can with our Hong Kong-based salvage team respond quickly and effectively to marine accidents on any level and scale. Our experienced Salvage Masters, Naval Architects, Salvage Engineers, Consultants and Divers stand ready to assist our clients around the clock. Our specialised crafts and equipment are always maintained and ready for use.

Our clients can rest assured that Hongkong Salvage & Towage will provide the most professional services such as:

- Emergency Response
- Salvage
- Oil Spill Response including oil removal
- Typhoon Standby Towage
- Marine Fire Fighting
- Wreck Removal
