

Salt Lake City Diocesan Council of Catholic Women

Board Meeting: November 8, 2025

NCCW President's Report

I am not available to be with you at the November 8, 2025, DCCW Board Meeting. I will have returned the day before from a site visit to Grand Rapids, Michigan, where our 2026 NCCW Convention will be held. I will have stayed at the beautiful Amway Grand Plaza hotel, sampled menus, and more importantly, seen in person the layout of the DeVos Center, where our meetings will be held. This will enable me to design, in consultation with the Convention Committee, the Convention Schedule, focusing on our programming and finalizing speaker arrangements. It's only the first week of November, but to me, August seems right around the corner!

The evening of our meeting, I will be taking a flight to Baltimore, Maryland, to attend the November 2025 Plenary Assembly of the USCCB as an Official Observer. While I am in Baltimore, I will be able to log in and join our monthly Council Chat on November 10. I love that, no matter where I am or how busy life can be, there is always a way to participate in Council. That said, I am also looking forward to joining the Rosary Call from the comfort of home on November 13.

I will look forward to seeing you at our next meeting. Until then, may Our Lady of Good Counsel pray for us.

Respectfully submitted by,

Amy Kennedy,
NCCW President
