

GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT “THE AKS PROGRAM FOR EDUCATORS IN NORTH AMERICA” WEBINAR

The AKS Program for educators in North America brings together experienced secondary school teachers teaching social studies, educators, textbook authors, school district officials and college or university professors at the undergraduate level who are interested in Korea and provides an opportunity to learn and discuss history, society, culture, and other Korea-related subjects.

The AKS has been committed to disseminating knowledge about Korea internationally. We have especially been interested in knowledge about Korea in the international textbooks and invited international educators to join our seminar programs.

The AKS Program for educators in North America welcomes those who have an interest in teaching about Korea in classrooms and writing about Korea in textbook or educational materials. This webinar will promote learning and discussion about Korea and how to develop educational materials.

On the first and second day of the program, participants will give presentations on and discuss teaching Korea in North American Schools and Korea-related contents in North American textbooks or educational materials. On the third day, prominent scholars and experts will deliver lectures about Korean history, society and culture and discuss relevant topics with participants.
