Los Angeles, CA, BiaoBo Technologies Limited is proud of its latest launch, a brand-new, simply programmed web application – www.mytotalworld.com. The application is a dream platform that the world has never seen before, and is the first integrated web application that combines the power of online social network systems (SNS) with shopping mall network systems (SMNS) in one app, giving users the greatest of both, unimaginable until now.

Programmed and developed by BiaoBo Technologies Limited, the application is an absolutely genius innovation; combining Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn, Google+, and more. This application completely covers the majority of life, and it organizes all interests and activities of each of its users.

"My Total World is a fantastic dream of which the world has never seen before. It is the very first of its kind – where one can manage, track, post and blog to all his social networks, profiles and personal interests using one application – and will soon expand into mobile and a full online shopping mall that will provide the best shopping experience imaginable." said by the CEO of MTW, Michael Holstein.

Up until now, SNS and SMNS have worked disjointedly, never coming together for the benefit of both consumer and retailer. MyTotalWorld.com unites these two very important and distinct worlds together for maximum efficiency and enjoyment. This achievement is a fantastic breakthrough in information technology, where “It can’t be done!” has now been accomplished – and is changing how one manages his life and shopping activities. Each user can post, track, message and blog to all his social contacts on all his networks and profiles, including his personal interest involvement groups. The mobile and shopping versions are expected to be released in early 2017.

Mytotalworld.com encompasses each facet of a person’s life and group dynamics: all his personal, family, groups, work and school, and spiritual endeavors can be organized and managed. Shopping will never be the same again. MTW will guarantee the best price, all the time. SIGN UP TODAY at www.mytotalworld.com.
