

EVOLVING Pictures

Michael G Kehoe: writer, 'Necroscope 4D' Motion Picture, is an award winning writer/director born in Brooklyn, New York. He was deeply involved in theater, producing and directing at 16 years old. He attended the American Academy of Dramatic Arts as an actor. His first job in Hollywood was an assistant to Sylvester Stallone on Rocky IV. Michael worked in production and in 1994 he directed a short film titled Second Dance, which became an official selection at the Sundance Film Festival & the Berlin Film Festival. Prism Pictures approached Kehoe to direct an action adventure script he wrote titled Dominion. He formed Taughannock Entertainment and has produced and wrote and directed several films and developed, wrote and directed a television show for the Food Network titled: "Catering Impossible" starring Tom Cruise. Kehoe wrote and directed a short film that won 34 Awards and is now in production for a feature film.

