Welcome to RampShot™ for Physical Education

Get your students IN THE GROOVE to Play RampShot by preparing them with the fundamentals and skill building confidence to be successful and active participants in and out of school.

RampShot is a great addition to any Physical Education Program. RampShot was designed by a Physical Education teacher as an alternative to traditional recreational games which only allow one player to be active at a time.

Three out of four player players are involved in every play in RampShot which allows for increased physical activity and student engagement. RampShot is the only recreational game that allows players to not only toss for points but catch for points as well.

Teammates work together to score points in this fun and exciting, non-contact game. The grooves on the patent pending ramps were designed to create exciting bounces that will keep students on their toes and help develop hand-eye-coordination.

SHAPE America's National Standards & Grade-Level Outcomes for K-12 Physical Education define what a student should know and be able to do as result of a highly effective physical education program. States and local school districts across the country use the National Standards to develop or revise existing standards, frameworks and curricula.

Standard 1: The physically literate individual demonstrates competency in a variety of motor skills and movement patterns.

Standard 2: The physically literate individual applies knowledge of concepts, principles, strategies and tactics related to movement and performance.

Standard 3: The physically literate individual demonstrates the knowledge and skills to achieve and maintain a health-enhancing level of physical activity and fitness.

Standard 4: The physically literate individual exhibits responsible personal and social behavior that respects self and others.

Standard 5: The physically literate individual recognizes the value of physical activity for health, enjoyment, challenge, self-expression and/or social interaction.

Your State applies an additional level with various, objectives, outcomes, goals, targets and benchmarks that set the specific learning and expectation for meeting the standards and various benchmarks.
