

Rain

I am just a child looking through the pane
But my eyes cannot see though all the rain
My heart is hollow. My spirit grows cold
While waiting for these feelings to unfold
I curl up and I hold myself tight
Wishing for warmth in this cold night
The pounding of the rain and the beating of my heart
Serenade each other as I sit in this dark
Alone and unwanted, not needed and un-adored
I seek inside for the love that I've stored
I am just a child, my Heart says to me
Here is where you belong, alone and free
Piercing laughter in the caverns of my mind
Friends from the past I no longer find
My Heart assures me that it will all end
The cuts and torn pieces will surely mend
But for now, I am just a child looking through the pain
Blinded by tears and listening to the rain
