Jeff Thomsen will continue to serve as Chairman, a position he has held since 2011. Jerry Rust will serve as Village Board Clerk. Outgoing Trustee Bob Dowdle was presented with an American Flag which was flown over the U.S. Capital and Village Hall thanking him for his years of service on the Village of Innsbrook Board of Trustees.

This year's schedule can be found on the left column of page 2 in this newsletter or on the village website at www.villageofinnsbrook.org. ## Honeysuckle

The honeysuckle plant comes in 180 different varieties, some of which are native to the United States, like the trumpet honeysuckle or the native yellow honeysuckle. But the plant that most gardeners are concerned with properly identifying is the invasive Japanese honeysuckle. Native to Japan and first introduced to America in 1806 as a fast-growing ornamental shrub used for ground cover, it slowly escaped cultivation and became widely established by the 1900s. The Japanese honeysuckle is an aggressive, invasive vine, readily colonizing new habitats. Birds are attracted to the purplish-black fruits, which persist into winter, and distribute the seeds along fencerows, into fields and natural communities. Japanese honeysuckle soon dominates an environment by smothering and killing native plants by spreading along the ground. It forms dense mats and climbs shrubs and trees, often dominating tree canopies. The Japanese honeysuckle is a perennial semi-evergreen vine. Opposite, oval glossy leaves less than 3 inches in length that remain green into late winter and tubular white to yellow flowers at the leaf axils help to identify Japanese honeysuckle. There are various methods to control the spread of this invasive vine. Individual young vines can be pulled up by the roots and removed from sparsely populated areas. This method requires that the entire plant, including all roots, runners and seed be removed to avoid re-sprouting. In areas of heavy infestation, vines can be cut by hand, and each cut stem sprayed with an herbicide. However, the cut stump treatment is best applied after the last killing frost and prior to spring wildflower emergence to prevent harm to non-target species. Foliar herbicides are often the most efficient means of control in areas with extensive growth and can be applied in late fall to minimize harm to native vegetation. To learn more about the identification and eradication of honeysuckle please visit our website at www.villageofinnsbrook.org.

MU Extension

Innsbrook resident, Linda Buschman, was reappointed on February 9, 2016 by the Innsbrook Board of Trustees to serve as a representative of the Village of Innsbrook to the Warren County University of Missouri Extension Council. The MU Extension is located at 107 West Walton Street in Warrenton and offers many programs and services to our community. For a small fee, the extension office offers basic soil testing which could result in fertilizer and lime recommendations. Plant and insect samples may be brought to the extension office for identification or disease diagnosis. The MU Extension also has publications available to purchase on agriculture, natural resources, lawn and garden, home and consumer life, nutrition and health, families, community and leadership development, business and careers, emergency management and other topics. If you have an interest in gardening, a willingness to learn and a desire to give back to local communities through volunteer service and education, become a Master Gardener. After completing an online training course, Master Gardeners expand the reach of University of Missouri Extension using research-based horticulture information to answer gardening questions in their local communities. Master Gardeners take on several community projects and consist of individuals who enjoy learning and sharing their gardening knowledge. For more information about the MU Extension visit our website at www.villageofinnsbrook.org and click on the link.

Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP)

The Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP) was adopted by the Board of Trustees in 2012 to encourage civic pride, neighborhood safety, environmental sustainability, enhancement and beautification of neighborhoods and promote the interests of the Village of Innsbrook. To qualify three or more residents or a neighborhood association can apply for funds. The Neighborhood Improvement Program for 2016 was not awarded to anyone. In prior years NIP funds were awarded to residents of Oakwood Estates for rock for the road, and Walkers Way for a permanent rock wall and road sign.
