

Dr. Manuli earned his medical degree from the UNC School of Medicine and completed his internal medicine residency at Carolinas Medical Center in Charlotte, where he also served as Chief Resident. He received his undergraduate degree in Chemistry from North Carolina State University, graduating summa cum laude.

After beginning his medical career in Statesville, North Carolina, Dr. Manuli moved to Elizabeth City in 2002 to be closer to family. He has enjoyed calling the Albemarle area home ever since and takes great pride in caring for the people in this community.

When he's not seeing patients, Dr. Manuli enjoys spending time with his wife, Cindy, and their grown children, Stephanie and Chris. An avid fisherman, he also enjoys scuba diving, deep-sea fishing, traveling, reading, and cheering on the NC State Wolfpack and Carolina Panthers.
