

Ten Commandments for Teachers of Handicapped Children

- I. Thou shalt always be thy students advocate.
- II. Thou shalt share vital information about thy students with mainstream teachers.
- III. Thou shalt keep all thy records up to date and accurate.
- IV. Thou shalt seek out all information about thy students necessary for teaching.
- V. Thou shalt digest this information and sort it into specific teaching strategies.
- VI. Thou shalt continuously strive for perfection in thy teaching.
- VII. Thou shalt never consider thyself a martyr in your day-to-day activities.
- VIII. Thou shalt always manage to keep thy sense of humor in all ye do.
- IX. Thou shalt always remember to tell thy students what a good job they are doing.
- X. Thou shalt lead thy students into decision making activities that will eventually help them to become functioning members of society.

