BE STRONGER THAN THE STORM

I shot up in bed awakened by the sound that I had thought was my alarm clock. I was surprised to find that the glowing red LED lights read 2:11 am. If it wasn't the alarm clock what was it? I had thought to myself while wiping the sleep from my eyes. Suddenly I heard a deafening crack. The type of crack you hear when you pour boiling water on ice. While the noise filled my ears, a blinding light lit up my bedroom. I could make everything out as if someone had just flipped the switch on.

It took a few moments before I came to my senses and realized what was happening. I had scanned the weather only hours on my laptop and had not noticed any warnings of a storm approaching. But here I was looking out my bedroom window face to face with the violent beast.

Suddenly I heard another deafening crack of thunder. This one so powerful my whole house trembled under the force of the storm. Like a child I ran for the security of my bed. Still warm from the few hours I had previously spent peacefully sleeping in it. I crawled deep within my blankets, covering myself from head to toe. Leaving nothing but a small space exposed, just large enough for me to see out of.

What was I thinking I was a grown adult frightened by a silly storm hiding underneath my covers as if they would protect me from something? With that thought the storm produced another earth-shattering crack and a blinding flash of light. The storm seemed to be collecting more and more energy with every minute that passed by. Yes, I may be an adult but hiding under the covers somehow made me feel less afraid. The feeling a small gopher probably gets when he's being chased by a coyote and finally reaches his hole, his safe place. Yes, I was a gopher, a gopher burrowed deep within my mound of blankets. Protected from the vicious howl of the thunder and sharp teeth of the lightning.

It felt like hours I lied there listening to the storm wishing that it would pass. Just when I thought it had moved on, I was proven wrong and it gave me another terrifying blast as if it just needed a moment to put all of its power together.

My eyelids became so heavy that the struggle to keep my eyes open became stronger than my fear of the storm. The warmth that my body had generated under the blankets was getting to me. I was falling asleep. Despite my intense fear of closing my eyes and leaving myself vulnerable to the storm I eventually drifted off.

I was awoken once again with a bright light coming through my blinds. Drowsy, my thoughts stumbled on themselves, I didn't understand what was going on around me. Had I been awake all night? Is it still storming? No.... no, I think that is sun beaming its rays through my window. The sun! I had lived! I made it through the storm. It was morning and I was alive. Jumping out from the safety of my covers I made a mad dash for my bedroom window.

Yes, that really was the sun, the calm after the storm. It was so bright that I had to squint my eyes. It's rays were so warm and inviting. Shielding my eyes with my hand like scout on top of lookout mountain I scanned my yard. I could tell that the storm I had experienced last night was not a dream. The storm had left evidence, proof of just how powerful it could be all over my yard. My yard had been littered with tree branches, and leaves.

I walked out onto my soaking wet lawn still in my bare feet. I felt the damp yet warm blades of grass brush along the soles of my feet with every step that I took. I felt the sun's warmth on my skin like a warm kiss on a cold winter's day. I took a deep breath and allowed the air's aroma to enter my nostrils. No matter how hard they try they just can't mimic the smell of a fresh rain on a summer's day and put it into an air freshener.

Despite the fear that the storm had embedded on my soul and the disaster it had turned my yard into. It sure did bring on a beautiful day.

"You are not controlling the storm, and you are not lost in it. You are the STORM." ~ Sam Harris

We are very PROUD and grateful for the team of volunteers that we have supporting us. They spend the same countless hours as we did to put on an AMAZING event for you! #### Why Hospice Care?

Decisions about hospice care can be difficult.

They are personal and important, best made by the patient and family, with cooperation from the physician.

Hospice of Havasu provides compassionate comfort care to people with a life-limiting illness and their families. These services are available to patients of any age, religion or race. Professionals work with patients and families to address physical, mental, emotional and spiritual needs. The Hospice of Havasu philosophy is a belief that each of us has the right to die with dignity, and that our families will receive the necessary support to allow us to do so. The focus is on caring, not curing.

Since 1982, Hospice of Havasu has operated on the premise that each individual should be helped to make the most of the time left. To accomplish that we provide the patient and family with a team of physicians, nurses, social workers, chaplains, certified nurse assistants, pharmacists, bereavement staff and volunteers who are trained in end-of-life care.

We also support the caregiver, who provides for the patient's day-to-day needs. That is usually a family member or significant other. If a primary caregiver is not available, the social worker and nurses will help to make other arrangements.

Hospice of Havasu also believes that each patient and family is unique. Our goal is to help individuals live as fully as possible, to allow them to retain control over their health care decisions and to preserve their dignity.

Medicare provides a full Hospice Benefit, and some private insurance plans have a hospice benefit as well. But, since our founding, we have never denied services to anyone because of their financial situation.

How do I become a part of Krusin' for a Kause 2019?

- Volunteer boat drivers are needed for giving rides to clients from Milemarkers and New Horizons.
- Dock / land volunteers are needed to assist with loading / unloading boats, assist with docking.
- Parking lot / direct clients to the dock area as they arrive.
- Donations of items for the Silent and Live Auction at DS Welcome Party, 100% of the proceeds will be donated to Hospice of Havasu.
