

Cheewa was the opening keynote at the Colorado Association for the Education of Young Children annual fall conference. She spoke of mastering changes that life brings and seek a balanced lifestyle. As educators, we were all very interested in learning how to find a balance on our own lives and how to help children find a balance in their lives.

Cheewa's keynote address was very moving and very motivational. The conference attendees felt her presentation was a wonderful way to kick off the conference.

On a personal note, I found Cheewa to be very easy to work with. Her attention to detail was important but at the same time she was more than willing to go with the flow as the need arose.

I would recommend Cheewa as a speaker to other educational organizations who are looking for a speaker who can give a very soothing and motivational message.
