Did you know that 91 out of the 184 programs listed in Cohort 8 of the Designation Renewal System competition were selected because a child was left alone somewhere? When early learning staff cannot be totally mentally present at work, major oversights can occur. These oversights jeopardize the organizations' reputation and funding. This innovative workshop assists executive directors and management staff in building a stable platform to decrease incidences of staff lapses of attentiveness. Join us to discover the four T's of organizational stability as they build quality early learning programming, establish administrative objectives to create a preventive design for staff self-care, and develop a self-care strategy to decrease burn out and staff exhaustion.
