

Garden vs. Jungle

The earth was created
to be a garden,
but sin turns it
into a jungle.

A garden is
cultivated and civilized;
a jungle is
savage and untamed.

A garden is
refined and peaceful;
a jungle is
raw and ferocious.

A garden is
planned and orderly;
a jungle is
wild and unruly.

A jungle is
primitive and primal;
a garden is
artistic and cultural.

A jungle is
for beasts and predators;
a garden is
for human habitation.

A jungle happens
without work and care;
a garden requires
our concern and contribution.

Neglect the garden
of your soul,
and it soon becomes
a jungle!

© Msgr. Walter Niebrzydowski

December 23, 1994

Fr-Walter@nyc.rr.com

www.fatherwaltersparish.org