I was recently asked what type our President Ramaphosa was, based on the speech he is about to deliver on Covid 19 and the effect on South Africans. This was my response. While I could never speculate his type, I hope that his address speaks to the following...

- *1* to be clear and stringent and have strict protocols in place
- *2* to be considerate for those who are vulnerable and at risk
- *3* to have a clear plan and to stick to it, adapting where necessary
- *4* for us to use creative thinking to make lockdown a boon not a tragedy
- *5* for us to stick to the facts and share only proven information
- *6* to take every precaution possible
- *7* to stay positive and envision cures and instill hope
- *8* to be courageous and make tough decisions that keep you and your family safe
- *9* to be mindful of the impact it has on us all and to remind us that no one is alone.

Take care of yourselves everyone. XX
