EASTER IN MY HAND

There's a rainbow in my hand full of colors that are bright
They remind me of the Savior
Who was born on Christmas night
He left his throne in Heaven
To forgive the sins of man
The candy from this egg
Will reveal his mighty plan.
The purple one reminds me
Of the sin that's in my heart
it separated God from man
And drove them both apart.
The red candy reminds me
Of the blood that Jesus lost
When he went up on the hill
And he died upon the cross.
Then Sunday morning came
And the stone was rolled away
By the orange light of sunrise
Christ arose on Easter day
Green is the color of the New life in the spring

It tells me of the new life

That knowing Jesus brings

Yellow is the color of

The gold that lines the street in Heaven up above

Where Jesus we will meet

The rainbow in my hand says

That Jesus died for me

The Savior in my life says

That now my heart is free.

TONY'S BLOG

Welcome to April and Spring!
Hope everyone got through March ok. We lost our electric for two days.

On March 18th we left New Jersey and headed south to Savannah for some warmer weather, but we found a lot of wind and cooler weather. But, as always, we made the best of it. It never rained while we were out and about. The history and charm of the south was there. When your in the south, everything moves at a slower pace. The food was wonderful and the hotels were great. I came away with a better understanding of the people and its history. I don't have to tell you that everyone on our bus was just great, we all worked together as a family. For some reason these little vacations bring out the best in everyone, and I always feel good to see new friendships being made. We still have some room on our next adventure to New Orleans. Check newsletter for details.
