

Audrey Worrell Bunch is the director of Project Enlightenment, joining the staff in September, 2013. She earned her doctoral degree from The George Washington University in Educational Administration and Policy Studies, master's degree from East Carolina University in Elementary Education, and bachelor's degree from University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in Early Childhood. Dr. Bunch brings over 28 years experience with a background in administration, curriculum & instruction, federal programs, Pre-Kindergarten, elementary grades education, teaching, and professional development. She and her husband are the parents of three grown children and three grandchildren. Her passion for developmental appropriateness in the education of young children motivates her work.