5. CIVIL WAR HUMOR

From: "Anecdotes and Humor from the Civil War"

At the battle of Sharpsburg, General Lee met a straggler going to the rear at full speed. Stopping him, Lee sternly ordered him to return to his duty. "I can't, general!" replied the man, his face paling and teeth chattering. "I am wounded!"

"You are not wounded sir," cried the general, indignantly. "You are as sound as I am."
