WINTER TRENDS

Take flight. Look cool. Stay hot. Vintage is back with a fashion blast from the past. Bomber Jackets are an LA Winter-Must. Designers are emanating punk vibes... lack leather and punk striped sweaters!

with your chunky sweater... pair it with skinny jeans, a tight skirt, pair of tights and, over-the-knee boots of course!

Checkedered anything is good for LA winter as long as bold, overstated and attention grabbing are your cup of tea. Don't forget fun wraps, capes and ponchos. For glamazons-on-the-go a fabulous poncho is your new best friend. No matter how busy you are, regardless of what's underneath — a stylish poncho is adorable, and likely will be the one thing you just can't live without! EVER.

Nothing beats the feel and look of velvet during cooler months. Long, warm and wrapped in sexy mystique, velvet anything is a major requirement. Adding a mix of velvet to your imposing fashionista repertoire offers a 70's London girl look whether it be a gown, pantsuit, handbag or coat. ■

Chunky knit turtlenecks are everywhere. Effortless to wear, stylish and can be made by your grandma — what's not to love? No need to give up sexiness

Los Angeles-based Designer Sue Wong Opens Fashion Week With Breathtaking Gowns and Ornamental Headpieces.

The Taglyan Complex in Hollywood hosted the presentation of Wong's spring and summer 2016 Alchemy & Masquerade runway collection for the Art Hearts Fashion Week. A Standing ovation for her beautiful designs and a plaque and proclamation from the California Assembly congratulated and thanked Wong for showing her glamorous collection in Los Angeles.
