

Becoming a Certified Diabetes Educator and Maintaining Certification

Presenters:

Sue McLaughlin, MOL, BS, RD, CDE®, is a past National Certification Board for Diabetes Educators (NCBDE) Board chair (2015) and Board member (2012-2016) and current member of the organization's Credentials Committee. She lives in Omaha, Nebraska and currently holds positions at several organizations in Nebraska. Those organizations include Nebraska Medicine, Children's Hospital & Medical Center, Endocrinology Clinics, in Omaha and Lincoln; Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska, Winnebago; and Camp Floyd Rogers, a summer camp for children with type 1 diabetes. Her other volunteer experience includes being the National American Diabetes Association President, Health Care & Education, in 2009, National Board member of the American Association of Diabetes Educators (2019-2021); Stream Lead, Education and Integrated Care and Member, Scientific Programme Planning Committee, 2019 International Diabetes Federation (IDF) Congress, Busan, South Korea, as well as Chair, Diabetes Education Consultative Section (DECS) of the IDF (2013-2015).

Sheryl Traficano, MBA, CAE, is Chief Executive Officer at the National Certification Board for Diabetes Educators (NCBDE), Arlington Heights, Illinois. For the last 18 years, she has been working for NCBDE, first as Director of Operations and, since mid-2013, as CEO. In 2015, she shepherded NCBDE through the National Commission for Certifying Agencies accreditation process, resulting in accreditation of the CDE program in 2016. Organizations she has worked for in the past include the Board of Certification for Emergency Nursing, Emergency Nurses Association, and several smaller dermatology associations. Her current volunteer activities include serving on the Institute for Credentialing Excellence's Public Member Work Group and holding the position of public member of the Elgin Community College's Physical Therapy Assistant Advisory Board. She was also recently elected to serve as a Board member of the American Board of Nursing Specialties, with her role starting July 2019. Sheryl obtained certification as a Certified Association Executive in 2016.
