PROSTATE CANCER CHAMPION RECEIVES 'MARY LOU WRIGHT DISTINGUISHED LEADERSHIP' AWARD

Dr. Thomas Moody of Alabama Demonstrates Commitment to Prostate Cancer Community

(Washington, DC) – The National Prostate Cancer Coalition (NPCC) has honored Dr. Thomas Moody of Alabama with the "Mary Lou Wright Distinguished Leadership Award." Senator Jeff Sessions (AL - R) presented the award to Dr. Moody during NPCC's annual Advocacy Day activities in September.

The Mary Lou Wright Award is named after a pioneer in the field of prostate cancer awareness, outreach and advocacy, and is presented to Dr. Moody in acknowledgement of his exceptional public service and dedication in the fight against prostate cancer.

"Dr. Moody has been a major presence in the battle against prostate cancer in Alabama, and his dedication is invaluable," said National Prostate Cancer Coalition CEO Richard N. Atkins, MD. "NPCC is proud to present this award to Dr. Moody for his efforts and commitment to the prostate cancer community."

As President of the Urology Centers of Alabama, Dr. Moody has tirelessly traveled to both Washington, DC and Montgomery to lobby for support of federal and state legislators. He has donated his own time and money to set up screenings and raise awareness of the disease across the state, and has testified before the Alabama Senate Health Committee on the need for greater access to screening.

"I am thrilled to receive this award from the National Prostate Cancer Coalition," said Dr. Moody. "This reinforces my commitment to encouraging policymakers nationwide to make prostate cancer a funding and research priority."

Earlier this year, Dr. Moody played an integral part in Alabama's passage of a state insurance mandate law, and almost single-handedly raised Alabama's grade from an 'F' to a 'C' on the 2007 Prostate Cancer Report Cards. Next month, the National Prostate Cancer Coalition and Community Care Network will team up with Dr. Moody to offer free prostate cancer screenings in Montgomery as part of NPCC's Drive Against Prostate Cancer program. Further information about this free screening event is available at www.fightprostatecancer.org/drive.
