Here's a description of the venue according to a review on Yelp.com: This is a great nature/conservation area type park, there are no swings or other kid things, just trails and open fields. Dogs are able to go unleashed and there is a dog park area with benches, poop bags, trash barrel and faucet and water bowl which is convenient. Trails are cool, cutting through pine woodlands, active and fallow cranberry bogs. Lots of water for swimming dogs. There are also ball fields and horse events here so be respectful with your pooch so this will remain open to everyone.
