

About Slate Woods

Slate Woods Farm has been raising Nubian dairy goats for twenty one years. We take great pride in our herd, striving to produce animals that are content and healthy. We hand raise all our kids to add a personal touch.

Our herd is fed a hand mixed grain ration, kelp meal, redmond salt, yeast culture, organic minerals and high quality alfalfa.

Slate Woods offers several educational seminars each year. We host farm tours for different groups and groups from different counties. We promote the goat industry in Kentucky.

Slate Woods produces most of their own food, from vegetables to meat and eggs and of course cheese and ice cream. We use our goat milk for cooking and making soap.

We will be offering some DIY classes, for more information you can contact us at:
