

Miss McIntyre's weekly challenge:

This week's challenge is based on Art. We have already looked at a range of self-portraits at school and have even created our own, using coloured pastels. I wonder if you can remind your parents/carers what a self-portrait is.

This time I want you to create a self-portrait using objects from around your home. You might use buttons, milk lids, sticks or even a can of beans. As an extra challenge it would be great if you could label your features and discuss these with your parents/carers.

Now it is time for you to become Artists! Below is the self-portrait I have created using items from around my home. Do you think it looks like me? I am so excited to see your wonderful self-portraits!
