Annual Report 2020

Our Mission

Our Mission is to join communities, build and strengthen neighbor relations, and work side-by-side with residents to address community-wide concerns and to link resources supportive of a healthy, safe and economically comparable standard of living.

Our Philosophy

Our Philosophy is to nurture inclusive communities, unite to create support networks, and determine the necessary strategic actions to address chronic, but preventable, problems.

Our Programs

Our Programs focus on partnering with community-based efforts that target the emergency needs of severely povertystricken families and individuals in rural Appalachia, including food, shoes, winter coats, medical assistance, school supplies, utilities assistance, and home repairs for families, people with disabilities, elderly individuals, and veterans who suffer due to economic and physical hardship. In addition, our programs focus on the future of children by supporting after school programs, summer camps and enrichment programs, summer food programs, youth mentorship, vocational training, and bridging the digital divide challenges that Appalachian children experience. ★

Dear support and friends,

You've heard it a lot – 2020 was a challenging year for us all. It was indeed for us and the people we serve. But I must tip my hat off to you! You stepped up and gave us hope. Honestly, without your support this year we wouldn't have been able to keep helping those in dire straits and get them onto a better path for themselves and their families. I can only try to tell you the hardships I've seen coming from central Appalachia. You may read about some of that in this annual report. However, I can safely say that when things start getting really tough, and I see your actions of support and words of encouragement, I know that there are people who care about us and these other children born into poverty. You give us the hope we need!

Truly, our successes this year are because of you and your generosity. I know that Americans Helping Americans may not even be the only charity you gave to this year and that is admirable. If any group of people were to get a medal for their deeds for this past year it should be the people who donated, in a middle of pandemic, their time, money, and efforts to a cause. It means so much to me that you know how honored you are from us.

Thank you for giving us all hope in tomorrow! We're looking forward to seeing what the next year brings and I know we can tackle it together. I'm happy to share with you a lot of good we accomplished in 2020. *

God bless you, Cameron Kirzek

Food Sustainability

Americans Helping Americans sponsored four community garden programs before the pandemic started which saw delays in construction and production due to COVID-19. By the end of the year however, hundreds of pounds of food were created in these gardens feeding children and elderly alike while educating community members on the multiple methods of growing food and proper nutrition.

In Marion, VA., nine families created a small mini-farm in their own backyard, equipped with tools and knowledge to maintain it, granting enough food for them and their neighbors! Cumberland Mountain Outreach teens spent their summer working on two gardens propped up by Americans Helping Americans where the success of the garden will sprout a food delivery service to families that are hard to each – an extension of the nonprofits mission. We look forward to seeing another excellent harvest in 2021 and are actively seeking to locate new partners with innovative agriculture techniques. ★

Education: Afterschool programs, vocational training, and bridging the digital divide

Students in Appalachia don't have the sc resources as students in more affluent are the country do. Sadly, the funding provid by the states can't provide the instrument and supplies modern education requires

Kentucky and West Virginia are dead last when it co to childhood education in the U.S. It's a critical need Americans Helping Americans and our loyal suppor have taken on along with many other organizations we partner with to improve the mission.

The Covid-19 pandemic prevented our sponsored tu from meeting with the vocational school students. The afterschool tutoring sessions were deemed essential continued to operate. The children continued to get r and education assistance while socially distancing a taking appropriate precautions.

By sponsoring after-school tutoring, vocational schools, and work readiness programs, we're encouraging students to continue their education, change the minds of those who might consider dropping out, and gearing up the youth to seek better opportunities.

2700 school supply kits we delivered at the start of the school year to ensure students have all paper, pencils, notebooks and other equipment to have a successful learning experience.

34 laptop computers we given to students in Kentucky without home computers to allow them to complete research projects in their own home. ★

That is why we constructed the Learning Pod with Cumberland Mountain Outreach in Beattyville, KY! By transforming the common area into mini classroom, keeping the utilities on and upgrading the WiFi, we were able to allow 8 students who didn't mesh well with virtual learning the chance to continue their education in a learning environment with other physical students around them, like a school classroom!

"Not every family has access to a personal computer or even has WiFi here in Beattyville," says CMO Director Cindy Evanoff, "which is why something like the Learning Pod is even more needed."

"I am very grateful for the opportunity to learn in the Pod!" - Erin

Even Big Creek People in Action in War, WV. created a Learning Pod for their students who don't have internet access at home. Students would come in every day to find their desk in the BCPIA gymnasium which would be socially distance from other desks equipped with head phones and a mic to communicate with their instructor, and a tutor on site would allow them to ask questions and assist them with their school work. At the Learning Pod, students would receive a meal and allowed to stay after school to receive another meal and assistance with any schoolwork.

Home Rehabilitation

Even though the pandemic prevented dozens of university student groups or church missions to help our efforts in repairing the homes of elderly and disabled Americans throughout

Appalachia, we still had a productive home rehabilitation season with our partners doing the best they can. The best course of action since they couldn't get many of their volunteer groups was to hire local contractors to finish their projects. Thank you to the groups that visited our communities to fulfill much needed repairs and to the professionals who assisted them.

In the Midst of a Pandemic, a Storm Hits Hard Earlier in the summer, Bradley county TN, where Ocoee Outreach conducts its home repair program sponsored in part by Americans Helping Americans, was devastated by four large tornados that wreaked havoc on the communities. 157 homes were damaged, 26 were totally destroyed, and 23 had major damage.

Even though the nation was on lockdown, large crowds were prohibited, and Ocoee Outreach was planning on adhering to all the restrictions for everyone's safety, the community rose up mobilizing 1,850 volunteers helping to clear out debris, repair roofs, and make sure that as many homes as possible were restored. Ocoee Outreach volunteers Darrell and Sharon Bottoms stated, "This is another opportunity for us to love on another precious soul" and "Apart from God's grace, any of us can be in a needy situation, so why would you not want to help someone else when you are able to. As local residents we are extremely grateful for the partnership Ocoee Outreach has with Americans Helping Americans - It truly has had a great impact on our community."

This year, we were able to complete 373 home repair projects. ★

Assisting communities with disaster relief

Summer Programs

This year, our summer camp programs took various forms because of the pandemic mandates. Our partner, Cumberland Mountain Outreach decided since they can't bring in children from across town to meet at their location, the will go to the children's homes themselves and bring summer camp to them. For two weeks in the summer, camp counselor volunteers travelled to children's homes and played games, made crafts, and ate meals together while being outside in tiny groups while social distancing. The camp counselors themselves, being young adults themselves, also volunteered their summer days working on some of the community gardens we sprang up keeping themselves extra busy and educated in various forms of agriculture such as traditional and hydroponics.

In West Virginia, where our partner Big Creek People in Action resides, their sponsored summer camp program turned into a Summer Fun Box where 49 children received a personally curated box of toys, lawn games, clothing, books, science kits, and food boxes. Volunteer staff who work throughout the year with the little boys and girls, who know all their likes and dislikes, selected items they knew the child would love and delivered the big box of goodies to the child's front door at the beginning of summer so the child would have exciting things to do and stay busy all summer long! Additionally, a food box with various recipes were available in the Summer Fun Box so that the whole family can have a meal for an entire month. 🖈

Having summer fun during lockdown

Blessing on Wheels

In Hawkins County Tennessee where the Lunch Box rolls through neighborhoods ensuring children are fed throughout the summer, COVID-19 created big hinderances. The Boys and Girls Club for Hawkins County and the Rogersville City Swimming Pool (the biggest stops of the Lunch Box) were closed all summer long. Adding onto those closed stops, one of the two remaining Lunch Box school buses broke down right at the beginning of the summer.

But one of the benefits of being in a small town is that people see the work you do. It wasn't long until the local school board approved to provide 2 newer (but retired) school buses! Even with those major hiccups, the Lunch Box was able to provide 4,435 meals this year! ★
