W.I.?J.A. - CONTROLLING YOUR DESTINY

The Picture

“My Circumstances”

People paint picture each and every day. You can imagine a lot of things about the picture. However you can not go beyond the picture. You are limited to what's in the picture. Sometimes these pictures are painted of you in an effort to eliminate your dreams. Your circumstances do not define you.

The Window

“My Opportunities”

If you look out a window, you can see a lot of different things. There may be things right outside your window that you do not like. However there are things beyond what you see just right outside the window. Those things beyond what you see are called opportunities. It does not matter if the shades are pulled or the window locked; you still have the ability to go out the window.

The Mirror “My Goals”

The mirror is about you. it gives you a realistic picture of who you are. The great thing about the mirror is that you can change the person in the mirror by setting goals toward what you want to be and then working towards them. The mirror determines if you want to be looking at a picture or looking and going out the window.
