Making Dance: The Process of Choreography

The special showing of a newly created piece of dance includes a lecture and demonstration on the process of choreographing.

There will be time for questions and answers with the nine professional dancers who have been dancing in the work as it was created!

Discussions on partnering, musicality, phrasing and spatial design will be included.

'In dance that challenges the mind as well as the heart, Lydia Johnson often isolates and reworks components of classical ballet technique to create a sense of life flowing unhurriedly over mysterious, human stories.' —The New York Times
