Mississippi River Gateway in the Works at St. Francisville

BY JENNIFER ROME

West Feliciana Parish government officials announced in a June 11 press release that the Parish “now owns the 72-acre parcel of land located on the Mississippi River at the site of the former Ferry Landing in St. Francisville” and will develop it as “a new park site and part of West Feliciana’s Park and Recreation system with improvement plans for the public and riverboats.”

Parish President Kevin Couhig explains that the Parish acquired the land “in an expropriation process” that brings to an end the “controversy and discord” of a long-ongoing lawsuit involving the Lambert Gravel Company, which has occupied the property and claimed rights to it. The act of expropriation describes a government’s taking possession of privately-owned property for the public good.

The property’s appraisal was $540,000. When the Court decides who owns the property, Parish officials explain, it will award the payment to the owner.

Couhig credits Representative Kenny Havard and Senator Neil Riser for “working tirelessly” to land the $832,100 in Priority 2 and $2.97 million in Priority 5 Capital Outlay funds “to begin engineering, planning and ultimately construction of a floating dock and safe berth for river cruise vessels, riverboats, passengers, public parking and a public boat ramp for recreation and commercial purposes.”

The Parish also “used funds from the sale of an industrial property, rebates of some of the prior-paid legal fees and reserves in its Building and Grounds Fund...”

The purchase price of $540,000 includes West Feliciana’s 25 percent match of the Capital Outlay funds.

Work has already begun on “better parking for residents and their boats and trailers.”

The Parish, is ready to begin work on the major construction as soon as the State releases the Capital Outlay funds.

USDA Invests $9.3 Million in Ethel's East Feliciana Rural Water System

By PATRICIA STALLMAN, KAREN LAWSON, USDA AND MELISSA SANDERS, EFRWS

USDA Meets EFRWS

On Friday, June 1, at the East Feliciana Rural Water System headquarters on Highway 10 in Ethel, Dr. Carrie Castille addressed the crowd that awaited her: "It is my honor and privilege to be here and bear witness to your hard work."

Melissa Sanders, executive director of EFRWS, welcomed Castille, Louisiana director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's rural development program. The occasion that morning, already hot at 11 a.m., was the official awarding of $9.3 million to fund what Dr. Castille called "the availability of safe and reliable water...to sustain our rural communities. Let this be the beginning of our partnership, our opportunity to work with you."

The group accompanying Dr. Castille included Assistant State Director Lee Jones, Amite Area Office Director Mack McCraney, Community Programs Director Reinette Foster, Community Programs Specialist Chris Bordelon, and Civil Rights Manager Heather

Rhine-Bouie.

Waiting to greet the USDA group were Richard King, president, EFRWS Board of Directors, and members of the Board; Phil Graham, the system's longtime financial advisor; Joe Harman and Tony Arikol, engineers with Professional Engineering Consultants; and the water system staff. PEC, Mrs. Sanders says, "began providing engineering services to the East Feliciana Rural Water System, Inc., in 1984." She also commended Jason Head of Thornton, Musso and Bellemin, Inc., who "has been consulting on the project since July 2016. Jason has spent many hours working with PEC engineers and gathering field data to support project improvements."

Mrs. Sanders noted that the Board began work on the project to replace and update much of the deteriorating water system two and a half years ago. Board members, whom President King, of Jackson, commended for their spirit of cooperation and analytical abilities, include: Vice President John Cadenhead, Slaughter; Secretary

Dr. Castille

Dr. Castille describes her area of expertise as "how water is used and sustained in support of agriculture and energy production." After earning a doctorate in renewable natural resources from Louisiana State University, she followed a path that led her seven months ago to the State's USDA rural development office. The time and place of her arrival couldn't have been better for East Feliciana.

As the federal Task force on Agriculture and Rural Prosperity has recently recommended investments in rural infrastructure, such as water systems, Dr. Castille found herself at the right time and in the right place to help the Parish move its water system into the 21st Century.

President King recalled the long road to success: "Forty-six years ago, when we began, I went door to door, asking people to join the new system. Three hundred signed on." That number is now 4,000. And the declining system—what Mr. Harman calls "a super-old infrastructure"—has been straining for years to meet its customers' needs.

As Mr. Graham notes, "It used to be, when it broke, folks would say, 'How we gonna pay for it?' Now this water system is forward looking. And this funding is a great step for East Feliciana. We're still a country place, but we're looking ahead," anticipating growth, he said, and preparing for it, while preserving the beauty of the Parish.

$9.3 Million

In recognition of the USDA's work to form partnerships that encourage economic development in rural communities, Dr. Castille presented the certificate testifying to the $9.3 million award for the Ethel system.

The money comes as a loan of $7,691,000 and a grant of $1,609,000. The loan repayment period is 40 years, and the interest rate is 2.625.

What That Will Buy

The system headquartered in Ethel covers, Mrs. Sanders says, "rural areas from Parish line to Parish line east and west, and everything south of Clinton and north of Slaughter."

Mrs. Sanders reports that the USDA funding will "improve system water quality and reliability" and also allow the system to serve more than the current 4,000 customers. The seven well sites, now "hydraulically separated from each other, therefore providing virtually no backup in the event of a problem," will soon connect.

Details of the proposed improvements:

Sanders estimates a project completion date of two years down the road.

Meantime, she suggests that, as construction begins, customers check www.eastfelicianaruralwater.com frequently, as she will post "scheduled outage information and any construction information that is made available to this office."

The Cost to Customers

Sanders reports that the Board, working "to keep EFRW's rates as low as possible," commissioned a rate study by Louisiana Rural Water Association in November 2017. Based on those results and the recommendations of the LRWA, EFRW will implement an increase in rates effective July 1. The new charges will appear on customers' bills August 1.

"The Board," Sanders says, "tried to increase rates in a way that would have a relatively small impact on the elderly and those with lower incomes."

The current base rate for residential customers is now $14.50 for the first 2,000 gallons of water. That rate will increase by one dollar to $15.50 for the first 2,000 gallons. The current rate of $3.25 for each additional 1,000 gallons of water will increase by $1.90 to $5.15 per 1,000 gallons.

The rate adjustment will also impact commercial customers. The current commercial rate is $33.35 per 10,000 gallons and $3.25 per 1,000 gallons over the first 10,000.

The new rates will be $50 per 5,000 gallons and $5.15 per 1,000 gallons over the first 5,000 gallons.

The last rate increase occurred in September 2014.

The Partnership

Dr. Castille stresses that the USDA's partnership with rural Louisiana is not limited to water systems.

"Anything that can develop and grow a town from the ground up," Dr. Castille said Friday, "the USDA can help."

The USDA has funded, in East and West Feliciana and in St. Helena, for example, businesses, including hotel financing, to help them remain in operation and create jobs. Recipients have also included single-family rural development housing programs that received, in 2017, 19 loans totaling $3,111,253, and loan and grant combinations totaling $7,499 and $7,500.

Examples of USDA help in the East and West Feliciana and St. Helena:

West Feliciana Parish Hospital - The USDA provided $17,576,000 in loan funds at an interest rate of 3.625 percent, with a 40-year repayment period. The agency also provided a guarantee for an additional $8,000,000 to construct the new critical care hospital that has opened recently to serve West Feliciana Parish and the surrounding area.

St. Helena Parish-wide water system - The USDA awarded $4,897,000 of loan funds and $2,253,000 of grant funds to connect and combine small water systems into a Parish-wide water system (excluding Greensburg and Montpellier). The project expanded the water system to provide water for approximately 350 additional families.

St. Helena High School - The USDA provided $2,880,000 of loan funds to build a sports complex that included a football field, a track and field area, bleachers, a field house and a concession stand, and a complete renovation of the high school.

St. Helena Elementary School and High School - Through the Community Facilities Direct Loan and Grant Program, the St. Helena School Board received $2.965 million for major renovations for the St. Helena Elementary School in Greensburg. Once the project is complete, the school will be modernized with a new entrance, updated library, new media center, administrative offices and much more. The project also included a stadium, awnings and carpports.

Slaughter Community Charter School - The USDA provided $7.8 million of loan funds for the complete building of the SCCS campus, from the ground up: classrooms, administrative area, cafeteria, gym, and football field, to accommodate approximately 488 students.

Greensburg Hospital renovation - The USDA provided $3.1 million of loan funds to renovate and modernize the hospital.

RKM - The USDA awarded funds for the original clinic and administration building in Clinton.

St. Helena law enforcement - The USDA awarded $37,966 of grant funds for the purchase of a police car.

Call Us!

Dr. Castille says, "Call us! We are happy to be here and be able to assist you in the development of this beautiful rural area."

"We will meet with any church group and community organization, and with Chamber of Commerce groups representing business opportunities, and we will attend local town meetings to answer questions. We've financed grocery stores and farmers markets...so count us in, not out."

"Partnerships," Dr. Castille emphasized, "are imperative in order for Rural Development to deliver services to the communities that need them. The viability of our rural communities is a direct result of the local partnerships and relationships that we have nurtured."

"There is not a day that goes by that I am not reminded of the tremendous success of Rural Development in our rural communities. As I drive through the communities, I see water towers, town halls, fire trucks and small businesses and feel blessed that we had a hand in delivering these services and see that our federal investment is being put to the best use."

"I would welcome the opportunity to meet with you to discuss and identify additional projects to support innovation and rural prosperity in your community. My office number is 318-473-7921, or email me at carrie.castille@la.usda.gov."
