

The Road to Change

As I started to write today's message the Lord began to speak to me about the changes happening in life. I have known over a year that change is coming and that I needed to remain focused on Him, and not the changes.

The good news is, when God takes away something, He's really taking us closer to him. The Lord reminded me of something He spoke to me back in 2000, "Whatever the changes are, I do not change."

Since then, and to this day I continue to learn on various levels whatever the change is, He does not change. It didn't happen overnight, many times it isn't easy, but I am understanding there is no change in my life that happens that can change Him or His spoken Word.

God is saying to you, "Do not fear the changes for the changes do not change My Words to you." Change is important.

Yes, circumstances change, life changes, but He changes not. Whatever the change is, it doesn't change Him or change His love for you. He is as He always has been and what He will always be.

Change is just that, change. You know I am going there. What's the definition of change? The future course, etc., of (something) different from what it is or from what it would be if left alone. Wow...if let alone!

When a person is running in the natural his view will begin to pass gradually into something else when enough steps have been taken. We each have our own race to run. You can't run if you are standing still. You cannot change if you are not moving forward.

There must be the passing from one place, state, form, or phase to another. It's just like the change of seasons. He is reminding you today, "I AM the Lord your God, and I change not. Change does not change Me."

He is saying, "My child, run with your eyes on Me. Run my child. Run the course I've laid before you. Don't fret the changes. Don't doubt what I am doing."

Friends, there is no middle ground here. You are either moving forward or not.

Embrace the truth of what He is saying to you today. Listen to what He says, not what circumstances or what other people say. He is saying, "Changes do not change Me. Changes do not change My spoken Word. My Word will NOT go void."

Again I emphasize, "Whatever the change is, it does not and cannot change Him."

I love how dependable He is. He is the same yesterday, today and forever. He is as He always has been. He is never ending.

Are you getting older and concerned about the changes happening in you? Are you changing jobs? Moving? Children growing up too fast? Parents getting older? The list goes on and on and on...Change is a part of life in Christ. Each day is a new day for Him to show you who He is to you.

Repent, my friend, where you have agreed with the enemy. Repent where you have walked in doubt. Repent where you have walked in unbelief. Repent where you have reacted with a fleshly response. Repent for not moving forward. Repent where you have refused Him when He spoke because you thought it was just you! Repent where you have allowed fear to be present.

Lord, we believe You, we trust You and we love You. Today, we agree and receive the truth of Who You are to us. We agree that change cannot and does not change You. We agree and rejoice that You are as You've always been, that You will do what You said You would do. We know that You are never ending, You are always good, You are always faithful, You are always true, and You love us with an unconditional love. May every waking moment of our lives bless You.

Copyright © July 31st, 2015
by Gina Cobb
GAHF@gatheringatHisfeet.org

