1. Rosendale Cemetery
2. Site of Rosendale Plains/Tillson Reformed Church
3. Tillson Friends-Community Church

The Rosendale Cemetery Association was organized on 19 May 1869.<sup>(1)</sup> In July of the same year, the Association purchased 27.6 acres of land from Hardenbergh and Margaret Delamater and one acre from Catherine and Adam Bedford in February, 1870.<sup>(2)</sup> The Rosendale Cemetery totals 28.6 acres of which only 12 to 13 acres have been developed. The land extends from the western side of County Road No. 7 to the railroad track.<sup>(3)</sup>

The Rosendale Cemetery has frequently been referred to as the Rosendale Plains Cemetery. The reasons are that the community of Tillson had been named Rosendale Plains until a Post Office was established in the late 1890's. Also, long-time residents of Tillson can recall when the entrance to the cemetery had a tall, narrow, iron gate. The name, "Rosendale Plains Cemetery" was in the grillwork of the iron arch that went over the entrance gate. The white frame cemetery office building and the iron gate were removed in the early 1950's, and the new stone cemetery office building and stone entrance were erected in 1953.

Every attempt has been made to transcribe the records as accurately as possible. However, there are pages in the Record Books where the handwriting is illegible and ink has been spilled. No attempt has been made to correct obviously misspelled names or numerical errors recorded in the books. Cause of Death was not transcribed for privacy, and Date of Interment was deleted for lack of space.

The cemetery is divided into sections, each section is divided into lots, and each lot is again divided into grave sites.

A family plot generally contains several adjoining grave sites. Book I refers to the lots as plots.

A large area has been designated for Single Graves south of Avenue A. There is a row of family plots and then three rows of Single Graves. Row 3 of the Single Graves is closest to the road. There are also a number of Single Graves in Sections 2 and 3. A notation of 3, 3, 3 indicates Section 3, Row 3, Grave 3.

The Town Plot, designated for indigents, and a Baby Section are no longer used.<sup>(4)</sup> The Vault and tool shed are located just north of Section 3. The Vault is used for temporary storage of coffins during severe weather. The New Part (1931) is apparently Section 9.

Many people believe that the Rosendale Cemetery Records were lost either in a fire or as a result of theft. Thieves did break into the office building in 1980, and stole four books of cemetery records. In time, the thief must have experienced feelings of guilt and telephoned caretaker, Bill Perkins, Sr. He told Bill where to drive to find the missing books. Bill followed the caller's instructions and recovered three of the four books.<sup>(5)</sup> Why the fourth book was not returned still remains a mystery.
