

Pazza

Pazza has become such a big part of our lives, I just can't remember what we did before she came home. We had no idea how much our children loved her until their teachers started relaying stories they tell at school. Donovan (our 4 year old) tells his teachers at preschool that he is most thankful for his dogs, especially Pazza and Blue because their only job is to keep him safe while he sleeps. There is a whole story about monsters behind that statement, but when the dogs are "guarding" his room, he has no fears. Joeley (2 year old) has found that Pazza will allow her to put pieces of her dress-up clothes on her head. On occasion Pazza has come out of her room wearing Tinkerbell earrings, necklaces, wings and crown. Pazza is so patient and tolerant of them, that I have no worries of leaving her alone with them. Joeley tells her teachers that she has to go home at night because Pazza would be sad if she didn't get to see her, which I completely believe.

My dad comes over every day and gets Pazza and Sally to keep him company in his shop. They give him a sense of security during the day. We live in a very rural area, and there have been some recent break-ins. However, Pazza and Sally are very protective of their pack, and I believe this makes all of us feel a bit safer.

Even the UPS and Fed Ex guys have fallen in love with her. I caught the UPS guy giving Pazza and Sally (Great Pyrenees) sandwiches one day. He said when he sees he has a delivery for us, he has his wife pack extra sandwiches and he tries to stop here for his lunch to hang out with them.

She has taken a great liking to the donkey and pony. The neighbors have commented on seeing the 4 “ponies” running in the pasture playing some crazy version of tag. We had to clear it up with some of the older folks, there are 2 dogs a pony and donkey, not 4 ponies.

At the moment, I am working from home due to the ice storm, and I have 115 pounds of Pazza sitting on my toes under the dining room table. She is a great blessing and a source of much comedy for our family. We wanted to say thank you for Pazza. She is truly a blessing!

Thank you,
Tammy D.
