

Jennipher Hiester, PA-C is a physician assistant who enjoys providing care for both pediatric and adult endocrinology patients.

Jennipher graduated from Lafayette College in Easton, Pennsylvania with a bachelor's degree in Neuroscience. Throughout attaining a Master of Science in Physician Assistant Studies at South University in Savannah, she discovered her interest in the endocrine system, which was later solidified by completing a clinical rotation in pediatric endocrinology. Jennipher also spent three years working in family practice, where she was able to further demonstrate her passion and dedication for endocrinology by frequently managing patients with diabetes and thyroid conditions.

Outside of endocrinology, her personal interests include hiking, cooking, and practicing jiu-jitsu.