Is eyebrow loss the same as hair loss on the scalp?

DR. NEAVIN: Plucking is one cause of brow hair loss, but brows vanish due to age, heredity, and men lose brows the same as women. Thanks to hair transplantation, we restore brow fullness by replacing missing hair with hair from the back of a client's scalp, so there is no chance of rejection. The treatment is done under local anesthesia. Surgical expertise is required so hair is placed in alignment against the bony brow as much as possible one hair at a time; we place from 300-400 follicles in a single brow. The procedure takes up to four hours. Immediately following the procedure, the treated area is slightly swollen for a day or two, and can show tiny scabs that may last up to a week. Clients say post-op is fairly painless.

Symmetry and a full natural look

BARNES: Eyebrows frame the face for men and women, so having proportionate well-balanced brows can increase perceived beauty and youthfulness. Where makeup or tattooing looks very obvious (after years of tattooing colors fade, change, or turn green) using your own hair as a transplant for a fuller brow is a great permanent solution to fine or thinning brows, due to age or years of over plucking. Clients come to me regretting past treatments that altered their natural eyebrows, so when Dr. Neavin asked me to come on board and consult on eyebrow design, I loved the idea of helping people achieve their ideals of beauty with a permanent solution. Regardless of the current condition of your eyebrows, we can get you what you want... beautiful, full, shapely brows using your own hair.
