

Lead Greeter Responsibilities – Barbara Rueckert

I've been greeting for a number of years and like to welcome people as they enter. I must be honest and say that I have stopped calling other people who listed that they would like to greet because in most cases they just did not come. As to a "list of duties", I would think that the main thing is just to be welcoming. Another helpful thing is to introduce someone who is new and often alone to someone for a specific purpose, such as for trip information, or the treasurer, or another person who would help make that "someone" feel welcomed and a part of things.

I have tried to be faithful to greeting and be there each time except when there is a meal at one of the meetings. If you feel that someone else should take over as lead greeter because they should be calling others who had said they would like to greet, then by all means do appoint someone else as lead greeter to see if they have a better response at meeting time to get more greeters to actually come in time to greet.

I do plan to continue to be faithful & come to be a greeter even if someone else should be "Lead Greeter".

Thanks for all you do.
