CAROL A. ASCHENBRENER, MD

Former Chief Medical Education Officer

Association of American Medical Colleges

Dr. Aschenbrener has been deeply engaged in medical education for 40 years as an educator, innovator, and executive. She joined the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) in April 2004, after nearly 30 years as a medical school faculty member and administrator. She oversaw the medical school accreditation process (LCME) for two years, then spent five years in the new role of Executive Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer, focusing on the implementation of the AAMC's strategic priorities and alignment of resources to ensure internal coordination of AAMC programs. In 2011, she assumed oversight of medical education, which spans the continuum of physician education and includes IPE, MedEdPORTAL, and a series of initiatives aimed at leveraging integration of a competency-based framework for the continuum of formation of physicians. She served in that role for three years, during which time AAMC launched several major new initiatives, including Education in Pediatrics across the Continuum; the Core Entrustable Professional Activities for Entering Residency; the model oral health curriculum and IPE collection in MedEdPORTAL; Pivio; and, in collaboration with the Interprofessional Education Collaborative, biennial faculty development institutes in IPE. She has extensive executive experience, including nine years in various dean's office positions at the University of Iowa College of Medicine and four years as Chancellor of the University of Nebraska Medical Center.
