

Cumberland Street Law

Street Law is learning the law – Alabama-specific juvenile law and procedures from Mike Milton, 2L, Cumberland School of Law and local attorney Jeff McGee

... and how to teach it - through role playing and problem-solving lessons from the Teaching Coordinator.

Street Law topics include "arrest etiquette," crime prevention, conflict management, child abuse, drugs, shoplifting and other law-related topics for middle and high school students in public and private schools.

How does it work?

- You learn Alabama juvenile law and how to teach it at a one hour Monday night seminar.
- Using the information that you have learned in the seminar, you will teach your assigned class for approximately one hour a week. There will be six consecutive one hour seminars.

When does it start?

- Orientation meeting is Monday, August 29th at 5:00 p.m. in Room 120.
- Monday night teaching seminars begin September 12th at 5:00 p.m. in Room 120 for six consecutive weeks. Last seminar date will be October 17th.
- You fit the class visit to your class/work schedule.

Who can participate?

- All Cumberland Law students regardless of prior legal or teaching experience!

How do I learn more?

- Email Alan Stevens at asteven4@samford.edu , Mike Milton at mlmilton@samford.edu , or ask a classmate who has volunteered in the past.
