“As an employee of SAFE, you will be working with adults and children who are or have been victims of violence including physical, emotional, and sexual abuse both as children and as adults. Many are also challenged by substance abuse, chemical dependency and/or the effects of fetal alcohol exposure. Your job will be emotionally stressful and, at times, physically dangerous. You will be working with people whose race, sexual orientation, religion, cultural and moral values may be very different from your own. You will be required to treat all people with dignity and respect and you may not impose your personal moral or religious belief on them or the situations they are coping with.”

If you feel you can work by these standards and do a good job for people seeking services from SAFE, please attach a resume or description of your work experience and anything else that may help us consider your application. Most jobs require a high school diploma or GED (or the ability to get one within six months of hire). Other academic credentials are welcome but are rarely required. We place a high value on your personal experience and commitment to ending family violence.

References: We will need at least three positive references, at least two from people you are not related to and preferably at least one from a current or former employer or co-worker. List e-mail addresses, also, if any.

All SAFE employees are subject to a criminal background check including fingerprinting.
