"We are excited to get help from the experts at Arthur's Turf Management and looking forward to them being a part of the 2018 season and beyond," said Boulkt, said. "We know they will do a fantastic job and we consider ourselves beyond fortunate to have our club supported by great community leaders like Seth and David at ATM."

"We are very excited to work with the Tulsa Athletic and welcome the challenge of transforming this high use space into a top-quality surface for competition," said Seth Newell, co-owner of Arthurs Turf Management. "While the challenges of field prep for this season are extreme, we are confident that our proven systems, and most importantly our sustainable and responsible Soil Biology Program will have this field in the best condition possible by the start of the season.
