November 1997

When I moved to the desert from Beverly Hills/Malibu, the new home I'd wanted, was unavailable for several months. I decided to buy a condo at PGA West and set about turning it into my ideal bachelor pad. By a stroke of good fortune, I wandered into Decorator's Depot and met David Scott. David turned out to be a general contractor with an artist's heart. He was able to take my vision and bring together all the various design elements, from silk drapes to handcut flagstone floors in addition to some major remodeling. It was perfect. Three years later, I was a happy newlywed with three dogs underfoot and realized we needed more space. We bought a house that needed a variety of work and I didn't hesitate to call on David once again. We textured walls, removed wallpaper and hung new, painted, changed light fixtures and most importantly, completely replaced the flooring. From boring white tile and carpeting, to beautiful Italian ceramic throughout the interior and exterior garden areas, a striking transformation. David coordinated all the sub-contractors and accomplished a miracle of demolition & installation of the floor while we were out of town on a brief vacation. We returned home to find the work finished and everything clean and in place. David has been faithful to follow up on all the little details and we are very satisfied with our "new dream home". David is more than a contractor, he is our friend and we recommend him most highly.
