Where a whisky is made can have a huge impact on its flavour.

Expert Jean-François Pilon, co-founder of Whisky Montreal, will present the different whisky-producing regions of Scotland, along with the history and methods of different distilleries. You'll even get to sample a wee dram!

If you're thirsty for more information about Scottish leisure and culture, visit the Scottish Delights exhibit, on until November 15 at the Dorval Museum of Local History and Heritage.

Registration

Registration will begin August 24, at 9:30 a.m., by phone at 514 633-4170, and in person at the Library as of 10 a.m. on August 25.

Please have your library card in hand when registering. Your file must be in good standing. You must provide a piece of identification and a proof of residence to take out a library membership or renew your card.

Exhibitions

Scottish delights

To November 15

When immigrating to Montreal in the 18th century, the Scots carried much more than their personal belongings. They also brought with them a unique culture that would forever change the Canadian way of life.

This summer exhibition invites you to rediscover the importance of Scottish sports and cultural leisure activities in the Dorval and West Island communities.

Toys and Traditions, Holiday Pleasures

November 28 to January 3

Since the 19th century, the holiday season has changed. From sharing to overconsumption, to sifting through one's imagination, what are your traditions today? A decorated tree, a unique toy, a delicious log or maybe Santa Claus?

To discover all these themes and more, the Museum offers an exhibition that will appeal to young and old alike.

New objects, new décor:
the magic of the holiday season renews this exhibit every year!

We invite participants to find out about the specific details of COVID-19 by visiting the City of Dorval's website at <https://www.ville.dorval.qc.ca>
