

With warnings well in advance of the storm, the residents of south western Pennsylvania hunker down for the night. As the local emergency services cope with the relentless storm, a menace appears as unexpected as it is deadly. A local medical supply company, reportedly manufacturing vital medical instruments, is actually a bio-weapons plant. The plant, working on an offensive military weapon, is overrun by chemically created zombies. The blood-thirsty zombies, escaping the facility, soon overrun the immediate area, seeking the local populace in their flesh-eating frenzy. Can the snowbound citizens survive both the vicious zombies and the Blizzard?

The Blizzard is a pilot for The Zombie Chronicles, a television series consisting of unrelated, stand-alone zombie tales. The one hour stories span the globe as well as time and space.