

Aviation Museum Field Trip

What a fun field trip. Our residents loved learning about our local airport and bits of the past, as they walked through the Aviation Museum in Hickory, N.C. The tour guide was wonderful, as he walked and explained what all the items were and the wonderful history that was on display in the museum. After the trip through the museum, we headed outside. Wow, there were many planes on display, including a helicopter. Some were donated from the military that had been in action. There was one plane that had been on rescue missions and had saved many lives. So we all left with a better appreciation of aviation and its importance through the ages.
