Catch That Pepsi Spirit

The Pepsi-Cola Collectors Club is pleased to announce that the 1991 Pepsi Fest (March 22-23, 1991) will be held at the Sheraton Northeast, Indianapolis, Indiana, their number is (317) 897-4000.

We have been given a flat rate of $45.00 up to (4) persons per room.

The Sheraton Northeast was the site of the first Pepsi Fest held in 1987, so we are pleased to be celebrating our 5th Pepsi Fest there. The Sheraton Northeast informs me that they now have an enclosed swimming pool and spa. This should be a nice addition to Pepsi Fest activities. Because of the larger banquet facilities at the Sheraton Northeast we should not have the overcrowding problems that we've experienced in the past.

Enclosed is a yellow registration form. You need to register with the Sheraton Northeast directly.

Pepsi Fest 91 Information

Pepsi Flying Saucer Winter Cool Collection As usual we will be offering a Pepsi Fest packet that you may order from the club. Refer to the enclosed form. Remember! everyone must be registered with the PCCC in order to attend Pepsi Fest events.

The exact agenda for Pepsi Fest 91 will be in the next newsletter. It will basically follow last year's; A Friday night Pizza party, (without the fire drill!) and room hopping. The swap meet and seminars on Saturday.

SEE YOU AT PEPSI FEST 91 !!!

Dear Pepsi & Pete

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

I recently found a sign on the road "dead" so I stopped to see if I could be of some help. I revived it and put the poor sign in my Pepsimobile and took it home and cleaned it up. I am requesting your help in identifying this sign as to it's age and value. I have enclosed photos of my recovered sign. The strange thing about this sign is that there are pictures on both sides, which makes me wonder if it will be easy to identify or if it demonstrates some type of "split personality". The sign is 38"x60". I put a frame around it and I proudly show it in my Pepsi show case.

Dear J.S.:

Your sign is from 1973. I saw a sign like yours sold at an auction (Pepsi Fair) for $60.00.

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

What is happening to Wild Cherry Pepsi?

Dear J.P.:

According to my sources Wild Cherry Pepsi is still being test marketed. No decision has been made to sell this product nationwide.

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

Are there any areas in the USA where Pepsi still sells 6oz, 8oz, 10oz, and 12oz returnable bottles.

Dear W.R.:

Yes, there are still some places that bottle smaller returnables. Your best bet is find a Pepsi-Cola franchise bottler, especially in the South part of the country.

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

Do you know anything about these Pepsi flavored Sno Ball sippin ice signs.

Dear E.H.:

Sorry I don't but I have included your photo with this column to see if our readers can help. Readers?

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

I would like to know, did Pepsi ever do any advertising on barns? I found a Pepsi painting of a barn, or is it just something a person painted because Coke has many out like this.

Dear D.B.:

I can't say for sure if Pepsi-Cola was ever advertised on the sides of barns. I do know Pepsi did have signs painted on buildings so it would be possible that they could've painted a barn or two.

One of the great pleasures of Pepsi collecting is traveling around and meeting other collectors. This past August we took a trip to Denver, Colorado, where we were able to meet many club members.

The surprise of the trip was a tour of the Denver Pepsi plant. Our guides for the tour were; Marrell Krantz and Gene Baker, who are also club members. Marrel and Gene are long time employees of Pepsi as well as long time Pepsi collectors. The tour was great fun and we enjoyed every minute of it and again want to thank Marrell and Gene for taking the time to show us around.

Brent Hinton, the Colorado chapter President arranged a club meeting including a swap meet for our visit. We had a chance to meet several of the club members and did some buying and trading. Thanks to Brent and the Colorado chapter for making us feel so welcome!

Pepsi History

Most advertisers pick one theme that they want to get across to the consumer in a given year. They found it more effective to get the consumers to remember one theme. In Pepsi-Cola's 1938 advertisements Pepsi tried to present 3 different concepts to the consumers.

The first idea was "health", the second was showing Pepsi-Cola as an "established" soft drink, and the third idea was "beware of imitators". Below are examples of Pepsi's 1938 ads.

"Pepsi-Cola is a delicious beverage, made from the essence of pure fruits, and other wholesome ingredients absolutely pure and free from preservatives".

Notice the use of health related phrases; pure, wholesome, and free from preservatives.

"Pepsi-Cola is a combination of more than fifteen of the finest fruit juices and extracts, and other delicious pure food products".

"Pepsi-Cola contains the marvelous flavors of the cola nut, grown in British West Indies and the Gold Coast of Africa, and has the same stimulating qualities as a fine, fresh cup of tea or coffee - as a refresher, picks you up instantly"

"Pepsi-Cola was originated by the late Dr. Caleb D. Bradham in 1896, more than 40 years ago, and has been manufactured and sold in 5! bottles uninterruptledly ever since". "Pepsi-Cola is original and one of the first bottled cola drinks. The trademark was registered in the United States patent office in June 1903".

"Pepsi-Cola is the second largest beverage company (non-alcoholic) in the world from the standpoint of production, sales, and financial resources".

In this last set of ads Pepsi-Cola shows a concern for imitators.

"Insist upon the genuine.
Call for it by the full name,
Pepsi-Cola. Every genuine bottle of Pepsi-Cola has a Pepsi-Cola crown, and a Pepsi-Cola body neck label, showing the original trade mark".

"Pepsi-Cola has a distinctive flavor all it's own, and should not be confused with any other cola drink".

"There are many imitators of Pepsi-Cola offered to the public. Insist upon the genuine Pepsi-Cola".

Collectors' Information

Due to the success of the Pepsi-Cola "cool cans" over the past summer Pepsi is now introducing the "Winter Cool Collection". The designs will appear on both Pepsi and Diet Pepsi and will be available on cans, 16oz. NR and 2 liters. The release date will be sometime in November.

Collectors' Spotlight

David Palmer from Roxboro, North Carolina is highlighted in this issue.

David has been collecting Pepsi memorabilia for the past 9 years. He currently works for the Roxboro Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co.

David started out collecting commemorative bottles and old Pepsi-Cola bottles. Then he realized that Pepsi-Cola had other treasures in the form of signs, pins, radios, etc. So the Pepsi bug bit hard and now he collects about anything Pepsi.

He says that his favorites are still the commemorative Pepsi bottles, old script bottles.

Nina Davis from Oskaloosa Iowa is highlighted this issue. Nina has been a long time club member.

A 64 year old grandmother a Pepsi collector, you bet!
My last two items were given to me and I think each time I get something new, it can't top the last but it always does. Just prior to the Super Bowl I found at my back door a Joe Montana poster. It is now framed and hanging in my back entry way. How nice to have friends in the Pepsi business.

I was in Texas in February and got in on the ground floor with the long neck bottles. Yes, I had a bit of trouble getting them back to Iowa but I wouldn't have left them under any circumstances.

I don't remember how long I have been collecting Pepsi, but it has been a good while. My collection consists of the usual glasses, placemats, clocks, thermometers, trays, bottles, cans, toys, menu boards, paper items and yes, even some reproductions. nice item that is fairly new and nice is the plate put out by Edwin Knowles in December of 1989. It depicts Santa with an open bottle of Pepsi. This was under my Christmas tree, thanks to a thoughtful daughter.

To the newer collector all I can say is stay right in there, you never know when you will find something very special to add to your collection.

Dear Pepsi & Pete

PEPSI & PETE

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

At one time, I had heard that Pepsi was going to test market a high caffine and high sugar version of Pepsi called Pepsi A.M. It was supposed to be a cold substitue for coffee in the morning.

Dear DeWayne:

Yes Pepsi did test market Pepsi A.M., I haven't heard of the results but I don't think they were postive.

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

What is the best way to drain a special Pepsi can in order to enhance it's future value?

Dear Dianne:

I carefully put two holes in the bottom of my Pepsi cans that I want to drain. After the Pepsi drains I then fill the can with water to rinse out any Pepsi residue, then drain the water, let dry. Dear Pepsi & Pete:

I picked up this interesting piece and feel something is missing. My guess is that this is a holder for a Pepsi syrup bottle. It sits in the holder, upside-down. Is that correct? If so what size bottle?

Dear L.W.:

You're right it is a holder for a 1 gallon jug of Pepsi syrup. It should also have some type of dispenser that the jug could fit into to release small amounts of syrup.

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

I recently purchased this Pepsi item. The bottle cap logos have one dot. The clear plastic back piece is 7 inches high and 14 inches long. Can you identify the item for me?

Dear K.W.:

Your sign looks like the top of a bottle/carton display stand up from 1960.

Dear Pepsi & Pete:

Has Pepsi put out any Winter Cool glasses?

Dear Glass Collector:

I haven't found anyone who knows of any Winter Cool glasses. I have heard of paper cups though. I'm sure if any of my readers know of any glasses they will let me know.

Last issue we had a question from E.H. regarding a Sno Ball sippin sign. This is what we have found out: Pepsi Sno Ball sippin ' ice was sold in the late 1960's (1967-1969) as a competitor to an icee drink put out by a cola company form Atlanta, Ga. The product was sold mostly through the midwest and southwest. This was not a test market product, Pepsi did actually market Pepsi Sno Ball. From the replies I've received I would guess that the signs are fairly easy to obtain.

Burton De Berry Melchor III from Virginia Beach, Virginia is spotlighted in this issue.

For the past 30 years Burton has been collecting Pepsi-Cola memorabilia. With the family business being a Pepsi-Cola bottler it can help in your collecting. Burton states that he always had a desire to collect or keep a sample of most of the items and that through the years it become a collection. He has recently begun to collect those items not in his collection.

3 generations worked together to build the business. The family had owned plants in Portsmouth, Virginia; Newport News, Virginia; and Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Gary & Ricia Craig from Garland, Texas are highlighted below.

Gary & Ricia are fairly new collectors. They got started collecting while going to antique stores looking for furniture. They noticed Pepsi-Cola items and become inspired!

Gary had worked for Pepsi in the late 1970's and wishes now that he had kept some of the items he ran across. When asked what their favorites are the response is; Signs, clocks, coolers, well all of it!!

My name is Randy Ezell. I live in St. Louis, Missouri. I have been collecting Pepsi items for about 7 years.

I have enclosed pictures of a Pepsi display that my brother Dave and I built for a Pepsi nostalgia Days at the Schnueks grocery store he manages in Bloomington, IL. The display was up about a month, which climaxed over the labor day weekend. The local Pepsi bottler provided promo items, also a brand new Pepsi vendor was given away in a drawing held at the store.

On Saturday, Sept. 1st, a live radio broadcast was setup in the store at the Pepsi display. My collection was displayed as were items from local collectors. Highlights of the display included a 1909 Pepsi Girl calendar, Pepsi Hutch bottle, 1950's fountain dispenser, porcelain signs, and vendors from 1940's, 50's and the 60's. Neon signs, many early Pepsi bottles, and a restored 1930 Model A Pepsi delivery truck, owned by Maurice Irvin one of the original owner of Irvin Brothers Pepsi-Cola Bottling of Bloomington, Illinois.

The display also was featured on local T.V. and newspaper. Everyone seemed to enjoy it, people exchanged Pepsi stories while pointing out items they remembered or items that had special memories to them.
