

Castor, James

James N. Castor, 53, of Sand Point, died Sunday, October 26, 2003, at his home from complications of his diabetes. He was born April 30, 1950 at Grace Hospital in Detroit, to Gertrude F. (Hanlon) Castor and the late Nicholas J. Castor. Jim was diagnosed with diabetes when he was 6-years-old and grew up in the Detroit area. He had been employed at Dikar Tool in Southfield several years until his health forced him to retire in 1983. He was only five when he and his family began coming to Caseville, and in 1983, he made Sand Point his home. Jim was a friendly guy who loved mechanic work and enjoyed working on and restoring old cars, he also enjoyed gardening. Surviving are his mother, Gertrude Castor, of Sand Point; his brother, Dr. Robert Castor and his wife, Lindsey, of Franklin, Tennessee; two nieces, Jennifer Tiller and her husband, Rick, of Santa Monica, California and Nancy Buppert and her husband, William, and their children, Nathan and Olivia, of Nashville. Private graveside services will be conducted at the Caseville Township Cemetery.
