From the Minister's Mac

"Spiritual Gifts"

Last week, our Scripture was from 1 Corinthians, where Paul tells the church at Corinth that they have everything they need, together. By combining all their spiritual gifts, they have all the tools they need to do ministry. Together.

But what if we don't recognize our own spiritual gifts? There are tests we can take, surveys we might fill out, but sometimes, we look at the results and still don't see in ourselves the gifts outlined on paper.

What to do?

One of our United Methodist pastors wrote a book to help believers "know they have been gifted by God for a purpose. When we understand that each of us has a vital role to play — whether it's on the front lines or far behind the scenes — we become an unstoppable force for good." Rev. Jeremy Scott, pastor of Johnstown UMC, wrote the book, "Gifted & Talented: Discover and Use Your Spiritual Gifts."

I'll be leading a Lenten study of this book on Monday nights, 7pm, via Zoom — 3/2, 3/9, 3/16 & 3/23. If you are interested in exploring your spiritual gifts through this book, which includes a scriptural point of view in each chapter, please either tell me or send me an email so I can get you signed up. You can find the book on Amazon in either hard cover or e-book format, or I can order it for you if you just let me know. Once you tell me you would like to attend, I will send you a reading schedule along with the Zoom link for the class.

I look forward to exploring our spiritual gifts together as we seek to use them for the glory of God.

See you in church,
Lin
