

All I'll Ever Need

You're not sweet sixteen anymore
So I guess that you've been kissed before
So come on home, how 'bout a kiss for me?
You're sweet as cherry pie, and I'm so happy
And I guess that's all I'll ever really need

Oh, but I'm just much too shy to tell you
When I look into your eyes how you
Take me where I really want to be

I've known you for so many years
And long before these happy tears
You were just another girl in my mind
But then day you made me, oh, so happy
And I'd like to tell you what I've seemed to find

But I'm just much too shy to tell you
When I look into your eyes how you
Take me where I really want to be

You're all I'll ever need
The warmth of your touch
All I'll ever need
The touch of your hand
All I'll ever need
Your hand on my cheek

You're not sweet sixteen anymore
So I guess that you've been kissed before
So come on home, how 'bout a kiss for me?
You're sweet as cherry pie, and I'm so happy
I guess that's all I'll ever really need

But I'm just much too shy to tell you
When I look into your eyes how you
Take me where I really want to be

You're all I'll ever need
